turkey modern architectures in history offers a journey through the iconic buildings of turkey that begins with the end of world war i when the new turkish republic was born out of the disintegration of the ottoman empire includes its democratization in the midst of the cold war s competing ideologies and concludes with the present day in which turkey continues to be dramatically transformed through globalization economic integration and a renewed appreciation for its islamic and ottoman heritage sibel bozdogan and esra akcan explore modern institutional masterpieces and architect designed buildings through the decades their focus includes informal residential plans and they discuss how these have evolved from small settlements to colossal urban quarters that exist at a slippery threshold of legality this richly informative history of turkey s built environment goes beyond typical surveys of western modern architecture and is unique in tackling the issue of the modern and contemporary periods that are often omitted in studies of islamic art and architecture offering a perceptive overview of modern turkish architecture this book places it within the larger social political and cultural context of the country s development as a modern nation in the twentieth century the architecture of istanbul is something that attracts attention both in academia and has potential for wider interest this book looks at turkey s social and political history through the architecture a unique approach mid century modernism in turkey studies the unfolding of modern architecture in turkey during the 1950s and 1960s the book brings together scholars who have carried out extensive research on post wwii modernism in a global context the authors situate turkish architectural case studies within an international framework during this period providing a close reading of how architectural culture responded to ubiquitous post war ideas and ideals and how it became intertwined with politics of modernization and urbanization this book contributes to contemporary scholarship to reconsider post war architecture beyond canonical explanations a cultural history of modern turkish architecture and its connections to european modernism esra akcan describes the introduction of modern architecture into turkey after the kemalist political elite took power in 1923 and invited german architects to redesign the new capital of ankara many architectural features in turkey are similar to those in iran both countries have mosques baazaars and residences built by the use of bricks the historic city of istanbul however lies in the european part of turkey and therefore has many architectural features similar to european countries a comparative pictorial introduction of the architectural features in istanbul turkey to the architectural featues in the historic cities of iran is the main focus of this volume titled a comparative pictorial introduction of art and architecture in turkey istanbul and iran this volume represents the first scholarly work in english devoted to the experience of italian architects and builders in turkey as well as in many of the lands once belonging to the ottoman empire covering a complex cultural and political geography spanning from the danubian principalities today s romania to anatolia and the aegean region the book is the result of individual research experiences that were brought together and debated in an international conference in istanbul in march 2013 organized in collaboration with the italian institute of culture and bo azi i university grounded on a flexible notion of identitarian boundaries the book explores a rich transcultural field of encounters and interactions analyzed and evaluated by scholars from six different countries on the basis of hitherto uncovered archival materials forms ideas individual mobility of actors and materials networks of patronage material and political constraints and religious and cultural difference all play a significant role in shaping the landscapes buildings and architectural projects presented and discussed here from late 18th and early 19th century experiences of interaction between neo classical backgrounds and westernizing ottoman forms to the italian proposals for a turkish republican iconic landmark like the ataturk mausoleum in ankara from the design of the first ottoman university building to ottoman varieties of art nouveau and art deco and to the infrastructures and urban developments of the 1950s in turkey the book is both a richly illustrated and documented overview of relevant cases and a critical introduction to one of the most enticing areas of encounter in the global history of 19th and 20th century architecture and design this vibrantly illustrated volume chronicles nearly a millennium of islamic art and architecture in turkey illustrated with some 250 attractive and well chosen color photographs turkish art and architecture is fascinating reading for anyone with an interest in turkey and an essential reference for any student of islamic art and architecture the anatolian peninsula one of the oldest seats of civilization has been ruled by a succession of great powers including the romans and their successors in the east the byzantines its islamic era began in 1071 when the seljuk turks nomads from central asia who had already taken control of persia defeated the byzantine army at manzikert and moved west creating a new sultanate in anatolia the seljuks were eventually succeeded in this region by the ottoman turks who crossed the bosphorus to conquer an exhausted constantinople in 1453 and went on to extend their power far beyond the borders of modern turkey establishing an empire that endured until the early twentieth century ruling over a land that had always been at the crossroads of east and west these islamic dynasties developed a cosmopolitan art and architecture as art historian giovanni curatola demonstrates in this insightful new book they combined elements of the prestigious persian style and memories of their nomadic past with local mediterranean traditions and also adopted local building materials such as stone and wood curatola introduces us first to the new types of buildings introduced by the seljuks like the caravansary and the türbe or mausoleum and then to the sophisticated architectural achievements of the ottomans which culminated in the great domed mosques constructed by the master builder mimar sinan d 1588 he also traces the history of the decorative arts in turkey which included lavishly ornamented carpets manuscripts armor and ceramics challenging existing political analyses of the state of emergency in turkey this volume argues that such states are not merely predetermined by policy and legislation but are produced regulated distributed and contested through the built environment in both embodied and symbolic ways contributors use empirical critical spatial research carried out in turkey over the past decade exploring heritage displacement and catastrophes contributing to the broader literature on the related concepts of exception risk crisis and uncertainty the book discusses the ways in which these phenomena shape and are shaped by the built environment and provides context specific empirical substance to it by focusing on contemporary turkey in so doing it offers nuanced insight into the debate around emergency as well as into recent urban architectural affairs in turkey
